Dr. Ash provided an update to the School Committee on what has happened since the Bruce Wellman Report to the teachers and staff last week and the presentation to the School Committee. He will be providing ongoing progress reports to the Committee. He highlighted four items that he will focus on and provide progress reports on and they include:

1. Dr. Ash has decided to accept the recommendation with respect to increasing his visibility in the schools. He believes that this is a high priority and he intends to meet each Friday with two academic departments.

2. The Steering Committee met last week to begin prioritizing the fourteen recommendations in the Report. Over the next several months, the plan is to obtain group consensus on priorities and then action items and steps along with means of assessment and monitoring will be established.

3. Staff members at all nine schools met with faculty members to provide feedback on the report and to begin a conversation about each school's needs going forward. The principals put together in-school steering committees that looked at the in-school data and the principals ran the meetings with teachers as partners.

4. He met with his Roundtable which is comprised of teachers who meet once a month and he had opportunity to talk with them about their thoughts regarding the report.

Dr. Ash said he looks forward to ongoing conversations and providing progress reports on the plans going forward.
